Flying Stars 2021

The “Flying Stars” are considered to be one of the major systems in Feng Shui to analyse the energy of a property and provide recommendations on how to use specific areas. The main chart is calculated according to the directions of the property and the time of building it or moving in of the current inhabitants. However, this should regularly be adjusted to the specific quality of any given year by analysing the so called “annual stars”.

You may have seen various interpretations of the Flying Stars for 2021 by now, but I’d like to take you on a little journey in my own fashion.

I’ll give a short interpretation for all sectors, and you may encounter that type of energy when spending sufficient time in that area of your property. But please bear in mind, that here we’re talking about the annual stars only, as related to their own nature, and related to the inherent quality of the sector according to the standard BaGua. The picture may change quite a bit if we also take into account the Mountain- and Water-Stars of the property, according to the alignment of the property.

First a word on the colours used, and on the orientation.

Mostly the BaGua (overlying the floorplan with a grid of nine rectangles) and the stars are orientated with South at the top, whereas I did place North at the top. This makes it easier to put the chart on top of a map, especially if taken from the Internet.

The colours should indicate the element of the star, apart from 1-6-8. These are called the Purple Stars and are considered auspicious wherever they occur.

The red rectangle is meant to make you aware of 7-2-9, which all can represent “Fire”. In “Late Heaven” 9 is fire, but in “Early Heaven” 2-7 are fire. So, for those stars the underlying colour is yellow and grey according to their elements Earth and Metal, but please be aware of their second nature.

This second nature of 2 and 7 can become significant if it’s triggered by other stars in the chart of the environment, as drawn on behalf of Site and Facing. Two stars of fire together, no matter which system, can mean heart problems for a person sleeping in that area (or sitting there for a long time each day).

Now let’s get started with the individual sectors, starting in the Centre, then going clockwise from Southwest through North back to South.

Centre – 6:

I’ve explained about the “Power of the 6” previously, so you may check the PDF at my website (<http://FengShuiGuide.me/PDF/2021-Center-6.pdf>), or my video about “The POWER of 2021” (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=iF4Y3eW3EVw>).

Southwest – 3:

This sector is “home” to the “2”, and that indicates some problems this year. Why?

In my opinion, one of the best ways to understand the interaction of stars is their position in the family of Trigrams, according to the I Ging. All in all, we have a family of archetypes of Father / Mother / Three Daughters / Three Sons (if you’re interested in this topic, please subscribe to my channel, some videos will follow at a later time: <https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCOnGQzdPAqJIsOCJv38NiLw/videos>).

Please recall that the “6” in the centre is the “Father”, so it denotes leadership and structure.

Now then, the “2” is the “Mother” and the “3” is the Eldest Son. If you imagine the son in his teen years, then you can see the potential of conflict in this area, which can influence each and everything done here. This energy may even affect you when you make a phone call sitting in the Southwest this year. And, not to forget: The theme of “Mother” can be extended to “compassion” and further on to “Relationships” – that’s why in some texts this area is called the “Relationship Corner”. Now, seeing the combination of “2” with “3” here, the potential conflict may affect you in your relationships (from love through family on to business) no matter where you are, as it’s the overall energy of the year. It’s just enhanced when using this sector of your property, but in my opinion it’s an overall theme for all of us this year.

West – 8:

Great constellation. The “8” is considered as the “Wealth Star”, the “West” is the sector for new ideas, so if you have some great innovation in mind, you may turn it into money this year – the more so if you have a chance to work on that in this sector of your office.

Please bear in mind though that the West also is the direction for “yin Metal”. In a previous write-up my picture for this were some scissors to prune plants (see <http://fengshuide.me/PDF/2021-Metal-Ox.pdf>). So be careful to not let your innovative ideas run havoc, but prune them to a successful endeavour.

Northwest – 7:

Generally, the “7” is considered as bringing some trouble. Why? It’s the “Youngest Daughter”, playing around and not adhering to common standards (her “home” is the West). However, the Northwest is the natural home to the “Father”, and these two persons have a loving relationship, one of the best in the family. Therefore, this year I’d expect the “7” to behave quite nicely, not to worry about.

North – 2:

Many people see the “2” as a star denoting “illness”, but hey, after all it’s the “Mother”. So I wouldn’t bother much about that as long as you don’t have a “5” present in this area also, coming from the alignment of the property. Any combo of “2-5” together should be taken serious, and it’s better to avoid that area at least for sleep. If you cannot move the bed out of the room, then at least move it inside the room so that it doesn’t occupy the same area (or another inflicted one) according to the room as well.

However, having said that, let me come back to the second nature of the “2” as fire. The North is the home of “Water”, so we have a potential conflict of “Water” and “Fire” here, and that again may cause health problems. So, if you’re in good shape you may use that sector, otherwise once again let me recommend to move out.

Northeast – 9:

We’re entering the “Period of 9” in Feng Shui, so the “9” is becoming the ruler and the strongest positive star. It’s “Fire”, and “Northeast” is “Earth”, so there’s harmony, and the energy of “Northeast” is strengthened. Natural topics here are Science, Education, Meditation, Spirituality. So, enjoy the energy in the Northeast to learn more about yourself and any other subject, but more by looking inward than outward.

East – 4:

Here research is directed more outward, with the “4” also called the “Academic Star”. In the I Ging it’s name is “Wind”, so it can move around and discover new territories. The “East” being considered as the area for “Health”, we may expect some good news from science this year concerning the Corona pandemic as well as other diseases. And if you want to participate in that: here’s the sector for you.

Southeast – 5:

The “natural home” for the “5” is the centre, in there being the “ruler” of the full chart. So, whenever it’s forced out of home, it’s bound to make trouble (that’s my own interpretation for this; the “trouble” being agreed on by most practitioners). Therefore, whenever we see the yearly “5” in any sector (apart from the centre), then expect some trouble there. Another word for “Trouble” however may be “Challenges”, and if you can face and overcome the challenge, then it may bring great reward, but it might be a tough road. So better ask yourself whether you’re up to that before using the Southeast extensively this year.

Now, one word about what’s mostly suggested as a “cure” against the impact of the “5”: using any kind of “Metal”. This year however we’re talking about the sector “Southeast”, and that means “Wood”. So, bringing in “Metal” would just add another conflict of elements.

There’s even one more complication here: water. Traditionally the Southeast is associated with “Wealth”, and “Water” (any kind of aquarium or fountain, inside or outside the building) considered to be the best way to activate it. BUT: Water is the easiest and fastest way to activate the trouble of the “5”. So, no water in the Southeast this year 2021, unless you want to accelerate your challenges. If you have installed Water in this sector, with good reason before this year, then best to put it away or at least cover it (for example if you can’t remove a pool outside). I'll give you some ideas for protection against the "5" and for enhancing your wealth this year in one of my future videos, so again please check my channel:

<https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCOnGQzdPAqJlsOCJv38NiLw/videos>

If you want some first indications, please watch my video about protection against the "5 in the East" in 2020:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Bij3Dk0RHjM>

Having said this about individual suggestions, let's look at the collective implications. Last year the "5" was in the "East" concerning "Health", and you know what happened worldwide: Corona pandemic. This year the "5" is disturbing the "Wealth", so I would not be surprised to see a global financial crisis in 2021.

South – 1:

Best comes last, though maybe not that easy to harness. The "1" is a very good star as mentioned before. It indicates "Career" as well as "Mentors". The South is the home to the "ruler" of the period, which might give it an additional boost. BUT: "1" is "Water", and "South" is "Fire", so we have a clash again. But hey: We can use fire to boil water, the "Steam Engine" was the beginning of the Industrial Revolution, so if you can harness the "Power of Steam" in the South sector this year, you're in for great success. Don't try if you're ill (once again better move away), but if your own energy is good, you can give it a boost here.

I have posted a first video about this topic "Fire and Water 2021", ranging from Volcanos to the South sector of your office here <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=DyzHtq5RGU8>. A second video with more practical advice will follow shortly.
